Our Take: According to recent visitors, this fashionable boutique hotel is, as its name suggests, right on the mark. Located just one block from Central Park and Fifth Avenue, this five-star European-style retreat places visitors in an enviable location, with easy access to iconic city landmarks and shopping streets. The décor is reminiscent of 1930s Paris, with a calming beige color palette and marble trimmings. But keep in mind, there are modern accoutrements here, too, such as Bang & Olufsen audio systems and plush Italian bedding. The elegance extends to the stylish Mark Restaurant by Jean-Georges, which boasts delectable French fare. In addition to the impeccable cuisine, the gracious staff also earns a nod of approval from recent guests. Most travelers agree: If you're looking for a charming Manhattan oasis, this first-rate hotel is well worth the splurge.
